Beneficiary Register: how the pathways work

Pathway 1 or 2. You must be on the Waikato register as a Ngā Hau e Whā o Pukekohe beneficiary. Your Waikato record should show Ngā Hau e Whā as your primary or secondary marae. This is a community marae, not a whakapapa marae. If it is not on your record, ask Waikato to update it and then apply again, or send written confirmation from Waikato that you are registered as a Ngā Hau e Whā beneficiary. You can also try Pathway 3 if it fits you.

Being a beneficiary is personal. It does not pass to children or mokopuna because a parent or grandparent worked for or gave to the marae. Being the partner of someone active at the marae does not make you a beneficiary either. Each person applies the same way.

Connection to Ngā Hau e Whā

Tell us how you are personally connected to Ngā Hau e Whā Marae and give at least one example we can check. For example: a whānau or tūpuna link, living in or near Pukekohe, going to tangihanga, hui or events, volunteering, work done for the marae, or a community partnership. You do not need a set number of years or a particular role.

Relevant experience

CV or profile (optional)

You can add a CV, or a short profile, of up to 2 pages. It is your choice, and not adding one does not stop your nomination. Do not include your date of birth, address, phone number, IRD or ID number, referees' details, or private details about other people.

If you add one, beneficiaries who are on the Register can read it on the website after logging in. They can view it only. It is used only to help them decide how to vote. It comes down when the result is announced, or at once if you withdraw. We show it only after you have signed the Nominee Notice and Consent form.

☐ I have attached a CV or profile (optional)

☐ I have signed the Nominee Notice and Consent form (needed if I want my profile shown)
